LIBRARIAN'S REPORT

To the Trustees of the Upton Library:—

The librarian herewith submits her second annual report.

Books and magazines have been purchased and added to the Dr. Carpenter alcove as required.

The special work of the past year has been the installing of the Newark charging system. Under this system each book is provided with a pocket and a book card. All the new books and the greater part of the old books in general circulation have been so equipped. One of the advantages of this system is the ability to tell, by a glance at the book card, both how much the book has been circulated and who has borrowed it. Many of the patrons, especially those who are borrowing books for others, find this very helpful.

During Children's Book Week, November 10-15, a collection of children's books was displayed and a well-attended story hour was held. A second story hour was given in December, with Miss Annie True kindly acting as story teller. The children seem to appreciate these story hours and to be eager for more.

During the year gifts were received from the following named persons and organizations: American Red Cross, Armour & Co., Bancroft Memorial Library, Boston University, Mrs. Albert Clark, Frederick E. Kip, League to Enforce Peace, Massachusetts Audubon Society, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Massachusetts Public Library Commission, Massachusetts Total Abstinence Society, Our Dumb Animals, Portland Cement Association, Rockefeller Foundation, J. D. Rockefeller, Jr.; Swift & Co., United States Government, Vermont Department of Agriculture, Worcester Bank & Trust Co., Young Woman's Christian Association.

A few library statistics and the usual catalogue of new books follow this report.

To the Trustees I would express my thanks for providing an assistant and to the patrons of the library my appreciation of their patience and consideration during the change in the system of charging.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN A. FAY,
Librarian.

Upton, Mass., January 5, 1920.

The school day is  $5\frac{1}{2}$  hours long, making a week of  $27\frac{1}{2}$  hours, or 1650 minutes. Ordinarily no home study is required in these grades. When required it is occasioned by special needs.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

Gentlemen of the School Committee:—

I have the honor to submit to you my second annual report, accompanied as usual by the reports of the high school principal and the supervisors of drawing and manual training. To these I urge your careful attention.

THE SCHOOL YEAR.

The school year has again been lengthened this year to forty weeks for all grades. The high school year has been forty weeks in length for some time but we have never had all the time we needed for the work of the grades. In fact forty weeks is none too long. However, the forty week year is the longest that has been generally adopted in this state and represents probably all we can do for the present. There is a tendency in the country at large to run to the all-the-year-around school, and for many such a school would doubtless be of extreme value. Other communities have adopted the plan of conducting a summer school mornings during July and part of August, which school is attended voluntarily by both those who have failed the past year and by those who wish to make more rapid progress than is usual. Such a school I would like to recommend for Upton; the expense being borne in part by the town and in part by those who avail themselves of the plan. In the long run it would save the town money and be of considerable service to a large number of boys and girls.

THE GRADE SCHOOLS.

In the grade schools there has been no change in curriculum but there has been a shift of emphasis. We have endeavored to practicalize, not so much by making changes, but rather by adapting instruction to actual needs. Take, for instance, spelling. Something over a year ago I entered an upper grade class where the following spelling lesson was being taught. The words had been taken in part from a spelling book and in part from the pupils' reading.

1. denunciation
2. suggest
3. odor
4. phenomenon
5. escadrille
6. library
7. hoping
8. permanent
9. monopoly
10. zoological

Now, truly, this was not as bad a list as it might easily have been, but we don't misspell words because they happen to be in a spelling book, nor do we misspell the words we read. We misspell the words we write. Hence I looked over a few papers and discovered the following among others actually misspelled by the members of the class.

1. thay (for they)
2. clene (for clean)
3. prest (for priest)
4. reding (for reading)
5. por (for pour)
6. allso (for also)
7. fourty (for forty)
8. beleive (for believe)
9. lode (for load)
10. quitey (for quietly)

This was alarming. But the remedy was close at hand. Let us take our words for spelling drill exclusively from the misspellings of the pupils. This we have been doing, and are now making a "drive" to eliminate the misspellings of usual words in the actual writings of the pupils. Doubtless "Excoriate" is a very important word, but we do not intend to teach it in Upton until it is misspelled or until we find that other, more commonly used words now misspelled, are straightened out.

So, too, with reading and arithmetic. As ninety nine percent or more of one's reading in life must be more or less rapid silent reading we have emphasized training for this function, and as few of us deal with very large figures and nearly as few do very well with small ones we are aiming at extreme proficiency with small figures in the arithmetic in order to overcome the practical handicap we most of us experience.

The underlying principle here is in each case to train for the actual activities of life.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Although the high school principal's report pretty well covers matters pertaining to his school I do want to mention here certain things that deserve special attention. First, the six year plan is still in development. There is a marked improvement in scholarship evident in the seventh and eighth grades. This was to be expected and was one of the reasons for the change. All the advantages of the plan cannot be apparent for another year or so yet when we will have greater opportunity for electives in the upper classes. Our present schedule will make these electives possible. Second, we have adopted the scale of marking proposed by Mr. Cole in his report of last year, whereby a pupil receives graduation credit not only for quantity but also for quality of work done. It is a stimulus to good work. Third, under the supervision of Mr. Cole and Mrs. Dearth, a school paper is about to appear. Such a paper is both a product and a producer of school spirit, and school spirit will do more for Upton high school than any other thing we can develop. Fourth, our school has been certified in class A by the State Board of Education for entrance to Normal School, which means that our students enter normal school without restriction. Fifth, after personal inspection by a member of the faculty of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute we were promptly re-certified by that institution for the usual term.

NEW TEXT BOOKS.

New text books are needed in all grades. Especially in the lower grades do we need to replace out-of-date or wornout copies. Geographies published before the war are obviously out of date. Even histories and civics should be changed but they can wait longer than the geographies. We are positively short of readers.

NEW TYPES OF INSTRUCTION.

Not only has the war rendered old books obsolete but also much of the old kind of instruction. The world is different. There is a new spirit abroad, and if the boys and girls of the present school generation are to take their places in the even different world of their mature years we must adapt our work to these newer needs of which many as yet are quite unaware. The socialized work that has been started in many places should be introduced as soon as possible. Some kind of connection between school and home that might result in the home chores being turned to educational advantage could profitably be sought. In all these attempts to adjust to the newer condition mistakes will doubtless be made, and should be expected in the present state of human fallibility. I invite the encouragement of the school committee and the townsfolk in our pioneering and plead for their charity wherever and whenever we fail.

TARDINESS.

In the course of my visits to the various schools my inspection of the registers shows a great amount of tardiness. The teachers all complain more or less regarding it. The tardy pupil fixes a bad habit in himself and is an annoyance to others. Sometimes pupils are tardy because they start too late for school, and sometimes because they have started too early and have opportunity to get interested in something else along the way. As no parent wishes his child to be late for school I would suggest that a reasonable amount of time be determined for the child to get to and from school, and that neither more nor less than that time be allowed.

TEACHERS.

We have seen seven new teachers during the year in a corps of eleven. Such a large number of changes naturally means a loss to the schools at any time, but at this time it is not only uneconomical but dangerous. There are a hundred thousand schoolrooms in this country either without teachers or presided over by persons whose qualifications are not up to standard. It is evident that we may count ourselves as singularly fortunate but hardly in a position to feel comfortable. The School Committee is alive to the situation and has been doing its part toward maintaining our schools by making considerable salary advances. The salaries paid on January first, 1920, are seventy-eight percent higher than those paid in September, 1918, on an average. But salaries are not the whole question. I believe that a more generous spirit of cooperation with the teachers on the part of the town's people would do much to both improve the quality of the work of the teachers and to hold them longer. The teacher's work is hard at best, and the teacher is just as fallible as the rest of folks. No teacher rightly can claim to be able to do without the help of every well meaning citizen. That help might take the form sometimes of adverse criticism, and properly. Such criticism is surely welcome, especially when it is known to be given in friendliness. It is likely to be misunderstood even then, however, when it comes indirectly. May I therefore, through you, gentlemen, ask the people of Upton to get into direct touch with their teachers, frankly and help their teachers to help their children as we want to do, by a "long pull and a strong pull together."

CONCLUSION.

I want to thank you, gentlemen of the Committee, for your untiring and public spirited service. It is an example for me. And I want to thank all of my fellow teachers for their loyal and unfailing cooperation and earnest efforts to get our work done well.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE ALLEN COE,
Superintendent of Schools.

REPORT OF PRINCIPAL OF HIGH SCHOOL.

West Upton, Mass., December 31, 1919.

Mr. George A. Coe, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir:—

I herewith submit for your consideration my fourth annual report as principal of the Upton High School.

I am able at this time, after a full year's observation, to draw a comparison of some of the results obtained under the two session and supervised study system with those obtained before the inauguration of the six year high school and while under the one session system.

Our present enrollment shows a lower mortality rate between the eight and ninth year classes, nearly every pupil from the eight year entering the ninth year class. The work of the pupils under the present system shows a higher grade of scholarship and consequently fewer failures. The teachers have a better opportunity to prepare and outline the work in their respective subjects. A better school spirit is shown. The higher rating received from the State Board of Education and from colleges shows with what degree of approbation they favor the new system.

An editorial board has been selected to supervise the issuance of a school paper. This board is composed of students and is being done in connection with the work in the english department.

Progress ceases when entire satisfaction is felt. While I am greatly pleased at the results obtained from a more efficient system and better methods of application I feel that there are attributes yet to be gained towards the perfection of our school some of which I would like to make at this time as requisitions for your consideration.

I believe that the organization of a school literary society would be highly beneficial where debates, rhetorical, musical selections, and other forms of social and intellectual activities could take place and be enjoyed. These meetings to be open to parents and citizens of the town. This plan would necessitate additional seats, our present seating capacity in the main assembly room being inadequate even for school use. Also electric lights are much needed; there being no lighting system in the main part of the building.

There is great need of additional equipment in the Physical and Chemical Laboratories.

For the present higher standard of conditions in our high school, and its greater progress I wish to express my thanks to the members of the School Board and Superintendent whose work and interest has been indispensable; to the interested parent for his needed support, and to the teachers for their earnest endeavors, loyal support, and cooperation.

Respectfully submitted,

A. RUSSELL C. COLE,

Principal.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF MANUAL TRAINING.

West Medway, Mass., December 18, 1919.
Mr. J. A. Coe, Superintendent of Schools, Upton, Mass.

My Dear Mr. Coe:—

I herewith present my annual report concerning the Manual Training work in the public schools of Upton.

The Manual Training work has now been taken over by the town. Personally, I feel that the Home Literary Club should receive the appreciation of the town's people for their splendid and untiring efforts in maintaining this department so long. They have done their part well. Now that the town has taken over the department, it should be enlarged and a sufficient equipment installed to accomodate sixteen or more boys. This one change alone would give the boys twice the time they now have. The present period for each class is so short that very few large things can be attempted. The boys are interested. They have ability and the great need is sufficient time.

The boys in the seventh or beginning class are making the usual small things. This is very necessary in order that the worker may become familiar with the tools and their use.

The eighth grade boys are making book-cases, smoking stands, sewing tables, etc. These large pieces are all made of gum wood.

I believe the classes are doing exceptionally well considering the time given and should receive every encouragement.

Respectfully submitted,

DANA A. STANLEY,
Supervisor of Manual Training.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF DRAWING.

West Upton, Mass., December 30, 1919.
Mr. George A. Coe, Superintendent of Schools, Grafton, Massachusetts.

Dear Sir:—

I herewith submit my first report as supervisor of drawing in the public schools of Upton.

The course of study in the first and second grades consists of illustrating stories, action drawing with sticks, and cutting nature forms from paper.

In the third and fourth grades paper cutting is continued; object drawing in crayon is included, and block letters are cut from squared paper.

In the fifth and sixth grades the aim is for more exact representation. Special emphasis is being placed upon good lettering and freehand drawing. In pencil work light sketchy lines are insisted upon in hopes that we may eventually eliminate the use of erasers.

The work in the seventh and eighth grades is based largely upon the following lines: industrial, commercial, domestic and artistic.

In all grades the use of rulers has been taught to develop accuracy. Throughout the schools an effort has been made to teach drawing from a practical standpoint, and to apply design to useful articles.

A considerable amount of interest has been shown by the pupils in the work, and although in almost all rooms the drawing is below the standard, it is improving. The teachers are doing all they can, to make the drawing what it should be, but it is not easy to get good results with so few materials to work with. A small appropriation would be sufficient and would be worth far more to us than it would cost the town.

In conclusion I wish to thank the committee, Superintendent and teachers for their hearty cooperation

Respectfully submitted,

VIOLET A. STEARNS.

Air :—"Juanita"

Four years at high school
 We have seen go quickly by,
 Now comes the parting,
 And it brings a sigh,
 For we loved our classrooms;
 Many happy days flew by
 'Till the Class of Nineteen
 Has Commencement nigh.

And, though we may seem joyful,
 'Tis a time that's all too sad;
 For we part now from classmates
 And good times we've had!

Parents and teachers,
 We will give you highest praise,
 You, who have helped us
 Toward this Day of Days!
 By your constant efforts
 We were urged to do our best;
 Through your earnest teachings
 We'll withstand the test.

And we'll ever remember
 Though we may be far away,
 'T was you who helped us onward
 To Commencement Day!

So we are parting,
 And with partings, always tears;
 But we'll remember
 These four happy years!
 And they'll bring us gladness
 As we all take diff'rent ways;
 Memories of high school—
 Oh! Those happy days!

Schoolmates, as we are leaving,
 You move forward in our lieu;
 And with hearts full of sadness
 We bid all "Adieu!"
